Day Trips: October 2014-January 2015

Patapsco Valley State Park

Orange Grove is one of the most scenic areas of Patapsco. It was once home to a mill town that supported the flour mill on the Baltimore County side of the river. A swinging bridge similar to the one that spanned the river in the 1800's and early 1900's crosses the river today connecting visitors to the popular Grist Mill Trail. A short walk up River Road Trail is Bloede Dam. The dam (no longer operational) is believed to be the world's first submerged electrical generating plant. We will park at the Orange Grove area and then you have the day to explore the park at your leisure.

Date: Friday, October 17

Registration closes Friday, October 10

Time: 9:00 a.m.-approximately 3:30 p.m.

Freedom Bound

Freedom Bound: Runaways of the Chesapeake is a story of resistance to servitude and slavery in the Chesapeake region. The exhibit begins in the 1720s, during the colonial period, and ends in the 1860s amidst the nation's Civil War. Meet people who were treated as property, and discover how they resisted that condition and asserted some degree of control over their lives and circumstances. The guided tour begins on the second and third floors of the Historic Annapolis Museum and continues to the Historic Annapolis Waterfront Warehouse and Banneker-Douglass Museum. We will be walking to each building/museum.

Woodlawn and Pope-Leighey House

Woodlawn was part of George Washington's Mount Vernon. In 1799, he gave the site to his nephew, Lawrence Lewis, and Lewis' new bride, Eleanor "Nelly" Parke Custis. The newly-married couple built the Georgian/Federal house designed by William Thornton, architect of the U.S. Capitol.

Frank Lloyd Wright designed the Pope-Leighey House in 1940. Commissioned in 1939 by Loren Pope the residence was sold to Robert and Marjorie Leighey in 1946. Mrs. Leighey gave the property to the National Trust, which relocated it to nearby Woodlawn.

International Spy Museum

The International Spy Museum (Washington D.C.) is the only public museum in the United States solely dedicated to espionage and the only one in the world to provide a global perspective on an all-but-invisible profession that has shaped history and continues to have a significant impact on world events. The Museum focuses on human intelligence and reveals the role spies have played in world events throughout history. It is committed to the apolitical presentation of the history of espionage in order to provide visitors with nonbiased, accurate information.
